Introduction

The TTI TriMetrix® DNA Coaching Report was designed to increase the understanding of an individual's talents. The report provides insight to three distinct areas: behaviors, driving forces and competencies. Understanding strengths and weaknesses in each of the three areas will lead to personal and professional development and a higher level of satisfaction.

The following is an in-depth look at your personal talents in the three main sections:

Behaviors

This section of the report is designed to help you attain a greater knowledge of yourself as well as others. The ability to interact effectively with people may be the difference between success and failure in your work and personal life. Effective interaction starts with an accurate perception of oneself.

Driving Forces

This section of the report provides information on the why of your actions, which with application and coaching, can tremendously impact your valuing of life. Once you know the motivations that drive your actions, you will immediately be able to understand the causes of conflict.

Integrating Behaviors And Driving Forces

This section of the report will help you blend the how and the why of your actions. Once you can understand how your behaviors and driving forces blend together, your performance will be enhanced and you will experience an increase in satisfaction.

Competencies

This section presents 25 key competencies and ranks them from top to bottom, defining your major strengths. The skills at the top highlight well-developed capabilities and reveal where you are naturally most effective in focusing your time.

Introduction Behaviors

Behavioral research suggests that the most effective people are those who understand themselves, both their strengths and weaknesses, so they can develop strategies to meet the demands of their environment.

A person's behavior is a necessary and integral part of who they are. In other words, much of our behavior comes from "nature" (inherent), and much comes from "nurture" (our upbringing). It is the universal language of "how we act," or our observable human behavior.

In this report we are measuring four dimensions of normal behavior. They are:

- How you respond to problems and challenges.
- How you influence others to your point of view.
- How you respond to the pace of the environment.
- How you respond to rules and procedures set by others.

This report analyzes behavioral style; that is, a person's manner of doing things. Is the report 100% true? Yes, no and maybe. We are only measuring behavior. We only report statements from areas of behavior in which tendencies are shown. To improve accuracy, feel free to make notes or edit the report regarding any statement from the report that may or may not apply, but only after checking with friends or colleagues to see if they agree.

*"All people exhibit all four behavioral factors in varying degrees of intensity."
—W.M. Marston*

General Characteristics

Based on Sylvia's responses, the report has selected general statements to provide a broad understanding of her work style. These statements identify the basic natural behavior that she brings to the job. That is, if left on her own, these statements identify HOW SHE WOULD CHOOSE TO DO THE JOB. Use the general characteristics to gain a better understanding of Sylvia's natural behavior.

Sylvia has a strong ego and usually projects this ego in friendly terms. She is most likely to be at her best in situations where important things, such as values, judgments, feelings and emotions are involved. She prides herself on her "intuition." She tends to trust people and may be taken advantage of because of her high trust level. She is good at creating enthusiasm in others. Sylvia likes to get results through others. She is at her best when she has people working with her. She is driven by status and power. She is optimistic and usually has a positive sense of humor. She likes to develop people and build organizations. Sylvia prefers working for a participative manager. She does her best work in this kind of environment. Her goal is to have and make many friends. At work, she is good at maintaining friendly public relations.

Sylvia tends to break the rules and then attempts to sell you on the fact it was the proper thing to do. She is good at solving problems that deal with people. She likes working for managers who make quick decisions. She is good at giving verbal and nonverbal feedback that serves to encourage people to be open, to trust her and to see her as receptive and helpful. Sometimes she will seek the quick and simple decision. Her aversion to detailed work motivates her desire for simplicity. She can make decisions even though some of the facts to support the decision may be missing. Because of her trust and willing acceptance of people, she may misjudge the abilities of others. She makes quick decisions.

Sylvia will know many people. She has a tendency to be a name dropper. She may do this without thinking, trying to establish rapport with people she may not know well. She will optimistically interact with people in an assured, diplomatic and poised manner. She usually uses many gestures when talking. She has the ability to look at the whole problem; for example, thinking about relationships, being concerned about the feelings of others and focusing on the real impact of her decisions and actions. Sylvia is positive in her approach to dealing with others. She may not understand why everyone doesn't see life as she does! Some see her as too talkative and emotional. She tends to mask some of her directness in friendly terms and is usually recognized as a friendly and trusting person. She is people-oriented and verbally fluent.

Value to the Organization

This section of the report identifies the specific talents and behavior Sylvia brings to the job. By looking at these statements, one can identify her role in the organization. The organization can then develop a system to capitalize on her particular value and make her an integral part of the team.

- Negotiates conflicts.
- Verbalizes her feelings.
- Bottom line-oriented.
- Inner-directed rather than tradition-directed--brings fresh ideas for solving problems.
- Team player.
- Pioneering.
- Can support or oppose strongly.
- Has the confidence to do the difficult assignments.
- Optimistic and enthusiastic.

Checklist for Communicating

Most people are aware of and sensitive to the ways with which they prefer to be communicated. Many people find this section to be extremely accurate and important for enhanced interpersonal communication. This page provides other people with a list of things to DO when communicating with Sylvia. Read each statement and identify the 3 or 4 statements which are most important to her. We recommend highlighting the most important "DO's" and provide a listing to those who communicate with Sylvia most frequently.

Ways to Communicate

- Clarify any parameters in writing.
- Deal with details in writing, have her commit to modes of action.
- Offer special, immediate and continuing incentives for her willingness to take risks.
- Leave time for relating, socializing.
- Understand her defiant nature.
- Speak at a rapid pace.
- Provide ideas for implementing action.
- Appeal to the benefits she will receive.
- Read the body language for approval or disapproval.
- Plan interaction that supports her dreams and intentions.
- Provide a warm and friendly environment.

This section of the report is a list of things NOT to do while communicating with Sylvia. Review each statement with Sylvia and identify those methods of communication that result in frustration or reduced performance. By sharing this information, both parties can negotiate a communication system that is mutually agreeable.

Ways NOT to Communicate

- "Dream" with her or you'll lose time.
- Be paternalistic.
- Let her overpower you with verbiage.
- Hesitate when confronted.
- Talk down to her.
- Drive on to facts, figures, alternatives or abstractions.
- Be dictatorial.
- Give her your opinion unless asked.
- Leave decisions hanging in the air.
- Ramble.
- Waste time trying to be impersonal, judgmental or too task-oriented.
- Legislate or muffle--don't overcontrol the conversation.
- Be curt, cold or tight-lipped.

Communication Tips

This section provides suggestions on methods which will improve Sylvia's communications with others. The tips include a brief description of typical people with whom she may interact. By adapting to the communication style desired by other people, Sylvia will become more effective in her communications with them. She may have to practice some flexibility in varying her communication style with others who may be different from herself. This flexibility and the ability to interpret the needs of others is the mark of a superior communicator.

When communicating with a person who is dependent, neat, conservative, perfectionist, careful and compliant:

- Prepare your "case" in advance.
- Stick to business.
- Be accurate and realistic.

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Being giddy, casual, informal, loud.
- Pushing too hard or being unrealistic with deadlines.
- Being disorganized or messy.

When communicating with a person who is ambitious, forceful, decisive, strong-willed, independent and goal-oriented:

- Be clear, specific, brief and to the point.
- Stick to business.
- Be prepared with support material in a well-organized "package."

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Talking about things that are not relevant to the issue.
- Leaving loopholes or cloudy issues.
- Appearing disorganized.

When communicating with a person who is patient, predictable, reliable, steady, relaxed and modest:

- Begin with a personal comment--break the ice.
- Present your case softly, nonthreateningly.
- Ask "how?" questions to draw their opinions.

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Rushing headlong into business.
- Being domineering or demanding.
- Forcing them to respond quickly to your objectives.

When communicating with a person who is magnetic, enthusiastic, friendly, demonstrative and political:

- Provide a warm and friendly environment.
- Don't deal with a lot of details (put them in writing).
- Ask "feeling" questions to draw their opinions or comments.

Factors that will create tension or dissatisfaction:

- Being curt, cold or tight-lipped.
- Controlling the conversation.
- Driving on facts and figures, alternatives, abstractions.

Perceptions

See Yourself as Others See You

A person's behavior and feelings may be quickly telegraphed to others. This section provides additional information on Sylvia's self-perception and how, under certain conditions, others may perceive her behavior. Understanding this section will empower Sylvia to project the image that will allow her to control the situation.

Self-Perception

Sylvia usually sees herself as being:

- Enthusiastic
- Charming
- Persuasive
- Outgoing
- Inspiring
- Optimistic

Others' Perception - Moderate

Under moderate pressure, tension, stress or fatigue, others may see her as being:

- Self-Promoting
- Overly Optimistic
- Glib
- Unrealistic

Others' Perception - Extreme

Under extreme pressure, stress or fatigue, others may see her as being:

- Overly Confident
- Poor Listener
- Talkative
- Self-Promoter

The Absence of a Behavioral Factor

The absence of a behavioral factor may provide insight into situations or environments that may cause tension or stress. Based on research, we are able to identify situations that should be avoided or minimized in a person's day-to-day environment. By understanding the contribution of a low behavioral style, we are able to better articulate a person's talents and create environments where people can be more effective.

Situations and circumstances to avoid or aspects needed within the environment in order to minimize behavioral stress.

- Avoid situations where the lack of fear is the driving force versus the return for the organization.
- Avoid situations where critical analysis is required, and move toward an out-of-the-box brainstorming environment.
- Avoid working environments where risk taking is not rewarded or encouraged.

Understanding that the need to adapt is unavoidable at times, below are tips for adapting to those with C above the energy line and/or tips for seeking environments that will be conducive to the low C.

- Stress is demonstrated through body language; be sure to send the same message verbally and physically.
- Understand the need for detail in delegation practices, as this may cause unnecessary stress for others, and the desired result will be more difficult to achieve.
- Breaking rules that others must follow, will be seen as reckless and haphazard.

Natural and Adapted Style

Sylvia's natural style of dealing with problems, people, pace of events and procedures may not always fit what the environment needs. This section will provide valuable information related to stress and the pressure to adapt to the environment.

Problems - Challenges

Natural

Sylvia is ambitious in her approach to problem solving, displaying a strong will and a need to win against all obstacles. Sylvia has a tendency to make decisions with little or no hesitation.

Adapted

Sylvia sees no need to change her approach to solving problems or dealing with challenges in her present environment.

People - Contacts

Natural

Sylvia is enthusiastic about her ability to influence others. She prefers an environment in which she has the opportunity to deal with different types of individuals. Sylvia is trusting and also wants to be trusted.

Adapted

Sylvia feels the environment calls for her to be sociable and optimistic. She will trust others and wants a positive environment in which to relate.

Natural and Adapted Style Continued

Pace - Consistency

Natural

Sylvia is variety-oriented and demonstrates a need to get from one activity to another as quickly as possible. She usually demonstrates a pronounced sense of urgency. She is eager to initiate change if for nothing else than for change's sake.

Adapted

Sylvia sees her natural activity style to be just what the environment needs. What you see is what you get for activity level and consistency. Sometimes she would like the world to slow down.

Procedures - Constraints

Natural

Sylvia is independent by nature and feels comfortable in situations where the constraints are few and far between. She will follow rules as long as she feels that the rules are hers. She has a tendency to rebel from rules set by others and wants input into any constraints.

Adapted

Sylvia shows little discomfort when comparing her basic (natural) style to her response to the environment (adapted) style. The difference is not significant and Sylvia sees little or no need to change her response to the environment.

Adapted Style Natural Style

Adapted Style

Sylvia sees her present work environment requiring her to exhibit the behavior listed on this page. If the following statements DO NOT sound job related, explore the reasons why she is adapting this behavior.

- Using a creative approach in decision making.
- Firm commitment to accomplishments.
- Flaunting independence.
- Using a direct, forthright and honest approach in her communications.
- Anticipating and solving problems.
- Having the ability to see the "big picture" as well as the small pieces of the puzzle.
- Acting without precedent, and able to respond to change in daily work.
- Persistence in job completion.
- Responding well to challenges: "You say I can't do it? Just watch me!"
- Being creative and unconventional in making a point.
- Being independent and innovative.
- Skillful use of vocabulary for persuasive situations.
- Quickly responding to crisis and change, with a strong desire for immediate results.

Time Wasters

This section of your report is designed to identify time wasters that may impact your overall time use effectiveness. Possible causes and solutions will serve as a basis for creating an effective plan for maximizing your use of TIME and increasing your PERFORMANCE.

Procrastination

Procrastination is the process of delaying action. It is also the inability to begin action.

Possible Causes:

- Priorities have not been set
- Do not see projects or tasks clearly
- Overwhelmed with commitments
- Hope that time will solve or eliminate the problem
- Fear of failure

Possible Solutions:

- Set goals and establish priorities
- Break large projects into small steps and do one at a time
- Agree to follow established priorities
- Consider consequences if it doesn't get done
- Remind yourself that you will avoid the stress of putting something off until the last minute

Cluttered Desk

A cluttered desk is one that is overloaded by papers, supplies and equipment to the point of impacting the ability to be productive.

Possible Causes:

- See organizing and filing activities as a waste of time
- Want everything at fingertips
- Do not conceptualize a system for grouping information and materials
- Have not established a timeline for tasks or projects

Adapted Style

Natural Style

Time Wasters Continued

Possible Solutions:

- Handle each piece of mail only once, i.e. pitch it, file it or delegate it
- Set up (or have someone else set up) an information storage and retrieval system
- Get off mailing lists that are of no interest to you
- Remind yourself that the time it takes to open "junk" mail robs you of time for more important tasks
- Establish a time limit for certain projects and only have current project material on your desk

Desire To Be Involved With Too Many People

The desire to be involved with too many people is involvement that extends beyond business interactions to the point of interfering with work. Beyond being friendly, it is excessive socializing.

Possible Causes:

- Have many interests
- Want to be seen as one of the gang
- Need praise and approval from others

Possible Solutions:

- Recognize your time constraints
- Be selective in getting involved in activities
- Monitor energy level
- Keep personal and job related priorities in view

Excessive Socializing

Excessive socializing is defined as those interactions that go beyond the usual required time for discussing a issue or task. It can also be interacting too frequently with those who do not support or contribute to the accomplishment of daily priorities.

Possible Causes:

- Enjoy people

Adapted Style Natural Style

Time Wasters Continued

- Want to be liked
- Are creatively motivated when with others
- Allow and even encourage visitors and telephone calls
- Haven't prioritized daily requirements
- Confuse deadlines

Possible Solutions:

- Keep daily priorities in view to keep you on task
- Set time guidelines for informal conversations, lunches and meetings
- Monitor your open door policy
- Screen and put a time limit on telephone calls
- Be willing to tell visitors and callers that you cannot be interrupted at this time

Long Lunches

Long lunches are those that extend beyond the normal time for eating. They could be kept within a specific time frame but are not.

Possible Causes:

- Get involved in the excitement of conversation and forget about time
- See long lunches as a networking opportunity
- Like doing business in a social, non-threatening environment
- Use long lunches as a way to avoid unpleasant tasks, people or the work environment

Possible Solutions:

- Set a specific time for lunch and STICK TO IT
- Have meetings in the office
- Set meetings right after lunch
- Have working lunches

Adapted Style

Natural Style

Open Door Policy

An open door policy in this context refers to giving unlimited and unmonitored access to anyone who wishes to see you.

Possible Causes:

- Want to be seen as supportive and available
- Want the social interaction of people dropping by
- Have a difficult time saying "no"
- Use people interruptions as a way of procrastinating or justifying missed deadlines

Possible Solutions:

- Set aside time to "close your door" and work on projects
- Set aside time to interact with co-workers
- Learn to prioritize activities and say "no" to low priorities
- Place your desk so that it is not always in "view" of those who pass by
- Avoid eye contact with people who walk by your desk or office

Areas for Improvement

In this area is a listing of possible limitations without regard to a specific job. Review with Sylvia and cross out those limitations that do not apply. Highlight 1 to 3 limitations that are hindering her performance and develop an action plan to eliminate or reduce this hindrance.

Sylvia has a tendency to:

- Be inattentive to details--only attentive to results: "Don't ask how I did it, just if I succeeded."
- Trust people indiscriminately if positively reinforced by those people.
- Be optimistic regarding possible results of her projects or the potential of her people.
- Be inattentive to detail unless that detail is important to her or if detail work is of a short duration.
- Be too verbal in expressing criticism.
- Take information at face value without validation or substantial investigation.
- Underinstruct and overdelegate--will rely on personality as opposed to a disciplined approach to follow-up.
- Be unrealistic in appraising people--especially if the person is a "friend."
- Act impulsively--heart over mind, especially if her security is not perceived to be threatened.

Behavioral Hierarchy

Your observable behavior and related emotions contribute to your success on the job. When matched to the job, they play a large role in enhancing your performance. The list below ranks your behavioral traits from the strongest to the weakest.

1. Frequent Interaction with Others - Dealing with multiple interruptions on a continual basis, always maintaining a friendly interface with others.

90

2. Versatility - Bringing together a multitude of talents and a willingness to adapt the talents to changing assignments as required.

85

3. Frequent Change - Moving easily from task to task or being asked to leave several tasks unfinished and easily move on to the new task with little or no notice.

82

4. Urgency - Decisiveness, quick response and fast action.

80

5. Competitiveness - Tenacity, boldness, assertiveness and a "will to win" in all situations.

80

6. People Oriented - Spending a high percentage of time successfully working with a wide range of people from diverse backgrounds to achieve "win-win" outcomes.

The Success Insights® Wheel

The Success Insights® Wheel is a powerful tool popularized in Europe. In addition to the text you have received about your behavioral style, the Wheel adds a visual representation that allows you to:

- View your natural behavioral style (circle).
- View your adapted behavioral style (star).
- Note the degree you are adapting your behavior.
- If you filled out the Work Environment Analysis, view the relationship of your behavior to your job.

Notice on the next page that your Natural style (circle) and your Adapted style (star) are plotted on the Wheel. If they are plotted in different boxes, then you are adapting your behavior. The further the two plotting points are from each other, the more you are adapting your behavior.

If you are part of a group or team who also took the behavioral assessment, it would be advantageous to get together, using each person's Wheel, and make a master Wheel that contains each person's Natural and Adapted style. This allows you to quickly see where conflict can occur. You will also be able to identify where communication, understanding and appreciation can be increased.

Understanding Your Driving Forces

Eduard Spranger first defined six primary types or categories to define human motivation and drive. These six types are Theoretical, Utilitarian, Aesthetic, Social, Individualistic and Traditional.

With TTISI's additional insights into Spranger's original work, the 12 Driving Forces™ came to life. The 12 Driving Forces are established by looking at each motivator on a continuum and describing both ends. All of the twelve descriptors are based on six keywords, one for each continuum. The six keywords are Knowledge, Utility, Surroundings, Others, Power and Methodologies.

You will learn how to explain, clarify and amplify some of the driving forces in your life. This report will empower you to build on your unique strengths, which you bring to work and life. You will learn how your passions from 12 Driving Forces frame your perspectives and provide the most accurate understanding of you as a unique person.

Please pay careful attention to your top four driving forces, as they highlight what most powerfully moves you to action. As you examine the next tier of four driving forces, you'll recognize they may have strong pull for you, but only in certain situations. Finally, when reviewing the bottom four driving forces, you will identify your varying levels of indifference or total avoidance.

Once you have reviewed this report you will have a better grasp of one of the key areas in the Science of Self™ and will:

- Understand how your driving forces are at play in your career and relationships
- Be able to apply your understanding of your driving forces to your relationships and job-related performance
- Have a clearer impression of your purpose and direction in life, which can lead to greater satisfaction in work and life

General Characteristics

Based on your responses, the report has generated statements to provide a broad understanding of WHY YOU DO WHAT YOU DO. These statements identify the motivation that you bring to the job. However, you could have a potential Me-Me conflict when two driving forces seem to conflict with each other. Use the general characteristics to gain a better understanding of your driving forces.

Sylvia has the ability to instinctively notice and respond to people in need. If she thinks it will harm the relationship, Sylvia will avoid confrontation. She has a desire to ensure policies are fair for everyone. She will accomplish tasks for the sake of accomplishment. Being rewarded for her investment of time, talent or resources is not her driving force. She will focus more on the satisfaction of others rather than being restrained by efficiency. She will thrive in a role where she can experience self-realization and gratification. She is able to see the overall situation and strive for harmony. Sylvia will view and use knowledge as a needed resource or a means to an end. She is comfortable in situations when she can rely on past experiences. She will evaluate each situation and determine how much collaboration is needed. She may be able to pick and choose the traditions to which she will adopt.

Sylvia looks for ways to help people have positive experiences. She has the desire to be empathetic toward those in need. She views money as a necessary means of surviving not as a sense of accomplishment. She values people for who they are versus what they can provide. Sylvia aspires to create unity and balance in her work environment. She feels a high level of satisfaction when she is able to create rapport and tranquility with others. She will research a subject if it's something Sylvia is passionate about. She is comfortable starting a project before gathering all the necessary information. Sylvia may focus on the greater good more than personal advancement. As long as Sylvia's beliefs are not threatened, she may allow others to influence the direction of her work. She may overlook traditions or boundaries to complete a task. She tends to dissect other systems and/or traditions and may be creative when applying them.

General Characteristics

Sylvia will strive to eliminate conflict in the workplace. She may sacrifice personal gain in a situation if the outcome is detrimental to others. She focuses on the greater good versus her return on investment. She focuses on the task at hand before considering the best use of her talent and skills. Looking and feeling good enhances her daily productivity. She may prefer a summary rather than the full-length version. She may seek situations that allow her the freedom to partner with others. She may seek new ways to accomplish routine tasks.

Primary Driving Forces Cluster

Your top driving forces create a cluster of drivers that move you to action. If you focus on the cluster rather than a single driver you can create combinations of factors that are very specific to you. The closer the scores are to each other the more you can pull from each driver. Think about the driver that you can relate to most and then see how your other primary drivers can support or complement to create your unique driving force.

1. Altruistic - People who are driven to assist others for the satisfaction of being helpful or supportive.

85

2. Selfless - People who are driven by completing tasks for the greater good, with little expectation of personal return.

85

3. Harmonious - People who are driven by the experience, subjective viewpoints and balance in their surroundings.

71

4. Instinctive - People who are driven by utilizing past experiences, intuition and seeking specific knowledge when necessary.

51

Situational Driving Forces Cluster

Your middle driving forces create a cluster of drivers that come in to play on a situational basis. While not as significant as your primary drivers, they can influence your actions in certain scenarios.

5. Collaborative - People who are driven by being in a supporting role and contributing with little need for individual recognition.

49

6. Receptive - People who are driven by new ideas, methods and opportunities that fall outside a defined system for living.

49

7. Commanding - People who are driven by status, recognition and control over personal freedom.

35

8. Structured - People who are driven by traditional approaches, proven methods and a defined system for living.

31

Indifferent Driving Forces Cluster

You may feel indifferent toward some or all of the drivers in this cluster. However, the remaining factors may cause an adverse reaction when interacting with people who have one or more of these as a primary driving force.

9. Intellectual - People who are driven by opportunities to learn, acquire knowledge and the discovery of truth.

24

10. Objective - People who are driven by the functionality and objectivity of their surroundings.

11

11. Resourceful - People who are driven by practical results, maximizing both efficiency and returns for their investments of time, talent, energy and resources.

6

12. Intentional - People who are driven to assist others for a specific purpose, not just for the sake of being helpful or supportive.

6

Areas for Awareness

For years you have heard statements like, "Different strokes for different folks," "to each his own," and "people do things for their own reasons, not yours." When you are surrounded by people who share similar driving forces, you will fit in with the group and be energized. However, when surrounded by people whose driving forces are significantly different from yours, you may be perceived as out of the mainstream. These differences can induce stress or conflict.

This section reveals areas where your driving forces may be outside the mainstream and could lead to conflict. The further above the mean and outside the mainstream you are, the more people will notice your passion about that driving force. The further below the mean and outside the mainstream you are, the more people will notice your avoidance or indifference regarding that driving force. The shaded area for each driving force represents 68 percent of the population or scores that fall within one standard deviation above or below the national mean.

Introduction Integrating Behaviors and Driving Forces Section

The ultimate power behind increasing job satisfaction and performance comes from the blending of your behaviors and driving forces. Each individually is powerful in order to modify your actions, but the synergy of blending the two moves you to a whole new level.

In this section you will find:

- Potential Behavioral and Motivational Strengths
- Potential Behavioral and Motivational Conflict
- Ideal Environment
- Keys to Motivating
- Keys to Managing

Potential Behavioral and Motivational Strengths

This section describes the potential areas of strengths between Sylvia's behavioral style and top four driving forces. Identify two to three potential strengths that need to be maximized and rewarded in order to enhance on-the-job satisfaction.

- Always willing to offer her time and perspective.
- Wants to be seen as a leader in humanitarian issues.
- Good at promoting causes that improve society.
- Promotes accomplishments for the greater good of the organization.
- Optimistic about process improvement related to people.
- Looks for the positive in people, processes and resources.
- Motivates others to express themselves.
- Brings balance to the organization in a positive and friendly way.
- Expresses and strives for a balanced team.
- Will bring high energy and intuition to the researching process.
- Motivates others to look for the right information.
- Willing to share knowledge and past experience to benefit the team or organization.

Potential Behavioral and Motivational Conflict

This section describes the potential areas of conflict between Sylvia's behavioral style and top four driving forces. Identify two to three potential conflicts that need to be minimized in order to enhance on-the-job performance.

- To gather pertinent information in a team environment requiring people interaction.

Introduction Competencies

Your success in any job depends on the value of your contribution to the organization. Managers, mentors and professional coaches can encourage, advise and guide you as you grow professionally. However, the ultimate responsibility for your career development is yours and yours alone.

This report is designed to assist you in managing and developing your career. For many jobs, personal skills are as important as technical skills in producing superior performance. Personal skills are often transferable to different jobs, whereas technical skills are usually more specific.

Based on your responses to the DNA 25 questionnaire, this report indicates your development of 25 personal skills. These 25 personal skills contribute to superior performance in many jobs. Your development of these personal skills are categorized into four levels:

- 1) Well Developed
- 2) Developed
- 3) Moderately Developed
- 4) Needs Development

While personal skills are certainly important for career development, it is not necessary to fully develop every one. In fact, development of a personal skill may not benefit your career if it isn't required in your current job. In order to optimize your career potential, it is best to focus your development efforts on the personal skills that are required in your current job, or the job you want.

Be sure to read the entire report with an open mind. Everyone has areas where they can improve. Before deciding to work on developing personal skills you have not yet fully developed, you may want to discuss the report with a trusted peer, mentor or professional coach. You may even wish to share the report with your manager. In most cases, management takes a very positive view of individuals who wish to develop their skills.
